Subject: Russian Foreign Intelligence Infiltration Via the Strategic Culture Foundation

Dear English Speakers Concerned About Russian Intelligence Active Measures,

While researching the writings of the founders of Russian Information Confrontation (IPb) today (namely, Расторпыев С.П.), a disruptive thought to my concentration kept coming up—a thought that I had an unfinished task regarding statements about the Strategic Culture Foundation (SCF). Therefore, to put this thought to rest and in the interest of being able to concentrate, it seems that I must write this letter regarding SCF which might help warn Republicans, Trump supporters, libertarians and other groups about Russian intelligence infiltration of their circles via SCF.

The SCF was co-founded by a member of the Politburo of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU) Central Committee and First Secretary of the Moscow City Committee of the CPSU—this person is named Yuri Prokofiev.^{1,2,3} He was an official in the final days of the Soviet Union and once said, “A person cannot live without faith. You believe in God, in the afterlife. I believe in communism.”⁴

Quoting from Charles Clover’s interesting book Black Wind, White Snow, Clover wrote:⁵

Note: Although Kryuchkov and Prokofiev, in public writings, disagreed procedurally about the actions of the State Committee on the State of Emergency to preserve the Soviet Union, they appeared to be in general alignment regarding the wish to preserve some form of the Soviet Union. In Pete Earley’s book Comrade J, which is based off interviews of Russian SVR defector Colonel Sergei Tretyakov, he says KGB General Kryuchkov was tasked by the Communist Party to move funds out of the country into shell corporations and that these funds would later be

Yet another clique of top Communist Party officials who also appear to have had the blessing of [KGB General] Kryuchkov attempted to salvage the legitimacy of the Communist Party by refurbishing the actual ideology of communism...Prokofiev...patronized the creation of something known as the Experimental Creative Centre...[that] hired hundreds of specialists, armed with computers and the latest technology, aimed at dreaming up a new Soviet ideology.

What was this new Soviet ideology? It “imbued secular communism with a theological meaning.”⁶ A new red religion where Soviet managers “were to become ‘knights and priests of the Red faith.’”⁷ It looked like “a fusion of communism, nationalism and Orthodox Christianity, with a dash of something known as ‘Cosmism.’”^{8,9}

After supporting the Experimental Creative Centre, the Strategic Culture Foundation was co-founded by Prokofiev in 2005 where he served as president of the organization.¹⁰ In 2010, SCF began publishing in English. By 2013, SCF articles started appearing in places like the Ron Paul

See: Pete Earley. Comrade J: The Untold Secretes of Russia's Master Spy in America After the End of the Cold War. New York, NY: G. P. Putnam's Sons, 2007. Pp. 287-288. Note: An additional point of interest regarding Kryuchkov is that in Clover's book there is speculation the KGB informant run group that Dugin was in, called Pamyat, might have been the creation of Kryuchkov and his circle. Pamyat was a suspected testing ground for the new KGB controlled political opposition and a prototype for the more successful LDPR. ⁹ For those familiar with Aleksandr Dugin's operations, this might sound familiar especially in the case of the first three, i.e., the elements National-Bolshevik with Orthodox Christianity. Dugin was co-founder of the National Bolshevik Party and a close associate of Konstantin Malofeev who runs Katehon and Tsargrad (both promote Russian Orthodoxy). Katehon had two retired Russian intelligence lieutenant generals on its advisory board (Leonid Reshetnikov of the SVR and Alexander Makarov of the FSB). Institute (coinciding with the Institute's launch) which is run by Daniel McAdams.¹¹ By mid-2020, it was public knowledge that the SCF was directed by Russia's Foreign Intelligence Service (SVR), and, more specifically, the U.S. Treasury (which sanctioned SCF on April 15, 2021) said it is controlled by the SVR's Directorate MS.^{12,13,14}

Despite SCF's known ties to the SVR and the U.S. sanctions against it, English language websites continue to support SCF's work via distribution of its articles, promotion of its website and interviews of its authors. Where do SCF articles and authors appear? Places including the Ron Paul Institute, LewRockwell's website, ZeroHedge, Natural News, GlobalResearch, Antiwar.com, SGT Report, The Intel Drop, the Mel K Show website and program, the Unz Review, etc.¹⁵

I've attempted to contact most of these people informing them that we know they are assisting Russian intelligence front groups conducting active measures against English speakers and asked them to stop. None of them have replied to me, but some have blocked my previous X account which I interpreted as their response to me.¹⁶ The combined reach of these websites is in the millions of visits per month, and in aggregate they represent a major conduit for Russian intelligence active measures targeting English speakers.¹⁷

To help understand the wider context of Russian information warfare that SCF fits into, I will briefly mention a few examples of Soviet and Russian intelligence collaborating with a few interconnected groups and people which the reader might find useful in helping understand why SCF appears on websites that seem contradictory (for example pro-communist vs. libertarian vs. National Socialist websites).

American Nazi Francis Parker Yockey collaborated with the Communist bloc intelligence services and spread pro-Soviet propaganda to the brown factions at home (David Duke, I'm thinking about his meetings with Dugin and the LDPR and a one-time interview with Alex Jones, has served a similar purpose and promoted similar messaging to Yockey).^{18,19}

One individual that promoted Yockey was William Carto.²⁰ His Institute for Historical Review (IHS) is a featured website on Ronald Unz's Unz Review and the IHS website can be found alongside other arguably pro-Russian websites on the Unz Review that partner with and reprint Russian intelligence front group authors.²¹

Lyndon LaRouche appears to be another person in this old Soviet, Russian strategy. Originally a Socialist Workers Party member, LaRouche later forged an alliance with Carto's Liberty Lobby and a security memorandum from LaRouche's organization said "We can cooperate with the Right to defeat this common enemy. Once we have won this battle, eliminating our right-wing opposition will be comparatively easy."²²

LaRouche's group was noted for being conservative-looking but taking pro-Soviet positions.²³ LaRouche also met with Soviet representatives proposing a merger of his own group and the Communist Party USA, and he met with the KGB.^{24,25} Aleksandr Dugin reportedly met with him in the year 2000 and a member of Dugin's International Eurasian Movement and Ukrainian

Progressive Socialist Party leader Natalie Vitrenko was invited to speak at LaRouche's wife's Schiller Institute.^{26, 27, 28, 29}

LaRouche's circle overlaps with people like Melody Krell, SVR controlled SCF writers, Alex Jones's circle (LaRouche and his associates were guests many times on InfoWars) and Ed Lozansky's propaganda operations the latter which have found amplification via Russian intelligence active measures conduits like retired U.S. Lieutenant General Michael Flynn (also an Alex Jones associate).³⁰

Aleksandr Dugin is worth mentioning in more detail. Starting in the early 1990s, while teaching at the Military Academy of the General Staff of the Armed Forces of the Russian Federation, Dugin had the ear, during at least one session, of seven Russian military generals.³¹ The textbook he developed while teaching at this academy called for the special services to "encourage...ethnic, social and racial conflicts" in the United States to bring "turmoil into the US domestic reality..."³² At the same time, he proposed that the Russian government support U.S. right-of-center groups that were primarily concerned with fixing these domestic problems that unbeknownst to them were being stirred up by the Russian special services.³³

Dugin did not confine himself to the lecture halls of the military academy advocating his work; he actively acted on his own advice, and you can see his influence, sometimes only in the periphery, at events like Unite the Right Rally or his connections to David Duke, Richard Spencer, Alex Jones, etc.³⁴ It was Ed Lozansky in 2008 that offered him up U.S. conservative contacts, and this was around the same time Dugin was calling for tanks to Tbilisi and Alex Jones was on RT talking as if he was reading not only from a KGB script but one informed by Primakov and Dugin.^{35/36}

SCF should be thought of as part of this wider context where the Soviet Union and now Russia will conduct active measures through all types of political groups to advance its foreign policy goals and will even pit multiple groups it supports against each other. SCF should also be thought of within the context of the informational-psychological warfare domain situated in the body of thought of Russian Information Confrontation (IPb). One of the founders of IPb, Russian Colonel Rastorguev S.P., said in his book Formula for Information War (1999) that:³⁷

In the case of rapid and mass reprogramming of a people, a nation, the most effective techniques are those that have an emotional coloring and belong to such spheres as: mass culture, art, religion. This means that in order to solve the problems of reprogramming the population, first of all, the emphasis should be placed on artists, cultural figures, and religious ministers.... The destruction of established structures, bringing them into a chaotic state, contributes to an increase in the redundancy of chaos, and thereby increases the possibilities for reprogramming systems.

SCF is positioned to contribute to the reprogramming of human systems of Russia's adversaries but also positioned to help generate chaos which will facilitate such reprogramming.

Call to Action

Cooperating with, and facilitating the active measures operations of, Russian intelligence tasked and controlled organizations and people should be unacceptable in the eyes of American citizens. Those interested in defending English speakers and readers in the information war Russia is waging against us should reach out to groups and people like ZeroHedge and Melody Krell and

From: James Antonius Fulk, Eyes of the Republic Counterintelligence Publication

Dear Mr. Rockwell,

In August of 2020, the U.S. State Department's Global Engagement Center (GEC) informed U.S. citizens that the online journal Strategic Culture Foundation (SCF) is registered in Russia, based out of Moscow and tasked by Russia's Foreign Intelligence Service (SVR).¹ The president of SCF at the time of the publishing of the report was Yuri Prokofiev a former Communist Moscow Party Chief and Politburo member.

On April 15, 2021, the United States Department of the Treasury Office of Foreign Asset Control (OFAC) designated (E.O. 13848) SCF for "propagating Russian intelligence services-directed content."² Specifically, it is SVR's Directorate of Active Measures that tasks SCF. Furthermore, OFAC noted that SCF has tried to evade sanctions.

Your website www.lewrockwell.com has republished over 100 SCF articles since the GEC report came out and the Treasury sanctions went into effect. Search returns on lewrockwell.com indicate there could be as many as 500+ SCF articles on your website.

Given that you now know the U.S. government has identified SCF as conducting active measures against U.S. citizens and that your website has facilitated this information war against U.S. citizens, will you remove the SCF content from your website and issue a public statement to your readers informing them that they were targeted by a foreign intelligence service?

Estimates of your website traffic indicate that it might have a few hundred thousand visits per month. You could do your country a real service by limiting the spread of Russian active measures directed against U.S. citizens by removing the content and informing your readers that they have been targeted by Russian active measures.

In addition to SCF, OFAC also designated South Front (SF) and stated it receives taskings from the Russian Federal Security Service (FSB).³

A review of the body of work of SCF and SF reveals it has the hallmarks of classic Soviet/Russian active measures. Therefore, it is troubling that Natural News writers republish SCF content and embed SF videos in Natural News articles (SF videos have donation links at the end) after the August 2020 GEC report and the April 2021 Treasury sanctions went into effect.

Given that you now know that SCF is tasked by the SVR MS and SF is tasked by the FSB and both are conducting active measures on behalf of the Russian intelligence services, will you remove SCF and SF content from Natural News and Brighteon? Subject: Russian Foreign Intelligence Service Linked Active Measures on www.unz.com

From: James Antonius Fulk

Mr. Unz,

In August of 2020, the U.S. State Department's Global Engagement Center (GEC) informed U.S. citizens that the online journal Strategic Culture Foundation (SCF) is registered in Russia, based out of Moscow and tasked by Russia's Foreign Intelligence Service (SVR).¹ The president of SCF at the time of the publishing of the report was Yuri Prokofiev a former Communist Moscow Party Chief and Politburo member.

On April 15, 2021, the United States Department of the Treasury Office of Foreign Asset Control (OFAC) designated (E.O. 13848) SCF for "propagating Russian intelligence services-directed content."² Specifically, it is SVR's Directorate of Active Measures that tasks SCF. Furthermore, OFAC noted that SCF has tried to evade sanctions.

Your website www.unz.com has republished over 100 SCF articles since the GEC report came out and the Treasury sanctions went into effect. Search returns on www.unz.com indicate there could be as many as 300+ SCF articles on your website going back to 2014.

Given that you now know the U.S. government has identified SCF as conducting active measures against U.S. citizens and that your website has facilitated this information war against U.S. citizens, will you remove the SCF content from your website and issue a public statement to your readers informing them that they were targeted by a foreign and hostile intelligence service?

Estimates of your website traffic indicate that it might receive over a million visits per month.³ You could do your country a real service by limiting the spread of Russian active measures directed against U.S. citizens by removing the content and informing your readers that they have been targeted by Russian active measures.

Regards,

James Antonius Fulk

New Horizon hosts international conferences that have provided Iranian intelligence officers a platform to recruit and collect damaging information from attendees. -DOJ Feb 13, 2019

...it is necessary to counteract US Atlanticist geopolitics at all levels and in all regions of the world, trying to weaken, demoralize, deceive and, ultimately, defeat the enemy as much as possible. It is especially important to bring geopolitical turmoil into the US domestic reality by encouraging all kinds of separatism, various ethnic, social and racial conflicts, actively supporting all dissident movements of extremist, racist and sectarian groups that destabilize internal political processes in the USA. At the same time, it makes sense to support isolationist tendencies in US politics, the theses of those (often right-wing Republican)... Dugin, Foundations of Geopolitics (1997) Pg. 358
