- This is Юрий Анатольевич Прокόфьев/Yuri Anatolyevich Prokofiev.
- Arguably, he held the top Communist Party position in the capital city of the Soviet Union.
- He was promoted up from the city level to the Politburo as well during the twilight of the Soviet Union.

First Secretary of the Moscow City Committee of the CPSU Yuri Anatolyevich Prokofiev.

- Prokofiev has a long resume of service to the Communist Party of the Soviet Union going back to the Komsomol.
- He once remarked, "A person cannot live without faith. You believe in God, in the afterlife. I believe in communism..."

2/25

➡ After the dissolution of the Soviet Union in '91, he patronized the creation of an organization that aimed at dreaming up a new Soviet ideology. In Charles Clover's book, it was described as a new red religion where Soviet managers were to become knights and priests of the Red faith. It looked like a fusion of communism, nationalism and Orthodox Christianity (with a dash of Cosmism).

→ Later, Prokofiev would go on to co-found and preside over the Strategic Culture Foundation (SCF).

WHO HELPS THE CRYPTO COMMUNISTS & RUSSIAN INTELLIGENCE?

A person cannot live without faith. You believe in God, in the afterlife. I believe in communism... -Prokofiev. "Прокофьев Юрий." EUSP Prozhito Center. Accessed May 27, 2025. <https://corpus.prozhito.org/note/666281>.

Prokofiev...patronized the creation of something known as the Experimental Creative Centre...[that]...aimed at dreaming up a new Soviet ideology. This new Soviet ideology imbued secular communism with a theological meaning. A new red religion where Soviet managers were to become knights and priests of the Red faith. It looked like a fusion of communism, nationalism and Orthodox Christianity, with a dash of something known as Cosmism. -Charles Clover, Black Wind, White Snow: The Rise of Russia's New Nationalism. New Haven, CT: Yale University Press, 2016. Pg. 171.

- SCF is controlled by Russia's Foreign Intelligence Service (SVR) and Сергей Нарышкин/Sergey Naryshkin is the director of the SVR.
- Naryshkin also has a long history of service to the Communist Party going back to the Komsomol then later the KGB.

► On 9/11 of 2023 (anniversary of Феликс Дзержинский/Felix Dzerzhinsky's birth), Naryshkin delivered a speech at SVR HQ for the ceremony of the opening of the new Dzerzhinsky sculpture monument.

► Dzerzhinsky was the head of the domestic state security services of S.U.

- ➡ Under Dzerzhinsky's--"sword and shield" of the revolution--Cheka, brilliant operations were initiated to demoralize and ultimately crush the resistance.
- ➡ One of these was called Operation Trust. The Cheka set up fake anti-Bolshevik and Monarchist organizations as bait to draw in the enemies of the Communists into a trap and to control the opposition from Moscow.

► The Cheka went as far as arming resistance groups against itself and blowing up its own police stations to convince dissidents that anti-Bolsheviks had some power inside the Soviet Union.

► Trust ran for the better part of the 1920s, and near the end of the decade Moscow began executing key dissidents it had caught in this trap and lured back to Moscow.

9/25

► Returning to the Communist led and SVR controlled Strategic Culture Foundation (SCF), it would be wise to ask ourselves what is the meaning of SCF's obscured control and Communist origins?

► Why does it publish in English and why are websites like

The Ron Paul Institute, Unz Review, Global Research, the Intel Drop, Lew Rockwell, Natural News, SGT report and others republishing SCF after the  Treasury sanctioned it? (ZeroHedge and InfoWars have occasionally republished them as well).

- It is well known the Soviet Union invested large amounts of human capital into its KGB disinformation operations targeting the West.
- Some still believe in the disinformation spread by the KGB and their perceptions of reality are partly derived from KGB disinfo.

- ➡ As we saw with Operation Trust, a key target of active measures is the opposition. To influence or control or destroy it.
- ➡ What are some groups that have traditionally been staunch opposition to the Soviet Union and pose a threat to Russia's foreign policy objectives?

Foreign Policy Principles of American Conservatives 09/17/2008

Speech by the President of American University in Moscow Edward Lozansky on the round table "Five principles of Russian foreign policy: multipolarity as inevitability"

Firstly, I want to thank Vladimir Ivanovich Dobrenkov for this meeting. The fact is that it was here, at the social faculty of Moscow State University, that American University began. 18 years ago, when we were all very naive and believed that with the collapse of communism, Russia would be met with hugs in the West, this was the first idea of – the creation of American University, and everything happened here on the second floor of this building. The university developed and then became part of a large international university. Vladimir Ivanovich, thank you.

Alexander Gelievich Dugin said that the Americans are pragmatists, all kinds of philosophical reasoning are far from them, they need to talk about more specific things; but here are the neocons, whom now, in general, are scolded, they are more likely ideologists. To some extent, they resemble Marxists who believe in some ideas.

I want to add that there are also ordinary conservatives to which I consider myself. These are people like Ron Reagan, Margaret Thatcher ... I would add the names of Patrick Buchanan, Paul Wairik, Donald Duvain and others. These are the pillars of American conservatism. And I must say that of those who carefully read the American press or articles on the Internet, many notice that these conservatives, right-wing anti-communists, of course, first of all, unexpectedly took a position, I would not say the pro-Russian, – but at least they say that what happened in Georgia is the fault of the United States. And before, these people understood that it was better to have Russia on its side. There were a huge number of delegations here, some of which I managed to organize, where they called for Russia to join NATO, to actively participate in the creation of the missile defense system, which would be much more effective if Russia and America worked together. And in this regard, I would say that Russia has a more favorable position than the Soviet Union, which relied in America on radical leftists, on the Communist Party, which had no influence in American society, and therefore all these means that were invested in support of the communist movement, were thrown into the wind.

The Coming Non-Interventionist Revolution

As we see each new administration, regardless of claimed ideological or political differences pursuing the same destructive policies abroad and trampling our civil liberties at home, we must now face the key issues of our time. The issues of war or peace, republic or empire, liberty at home or the encroaching police state can no longer be ignored. We find ourselves at the edge of a precipice, where it is obvious that the failed policies of the past cannot be repackaged under a new name to solve our crisis today.

Many still believe each four years that if only their candidate – with the newly-minted and freshly-printed slogans – is elected, we will finally be led to a new springtime in America to peaceful and prosperous days ahead. But regardless of party, with only cosmetic differences the same policies are being pursued

US Military Training Overseas: Vast and Under-Reported

april 16, 2013

NEWS ANALYSIS

Andrei Akulov writes in the online journal of the Strategic Culture Foundation this week about an under-analyzed component of the US interventionist foreign policy: foreign military training and assistance. According to Akulov, ➡ While this thread is not about Dugin, I mention him because his appearance in America coincides with this campaign targeting elements of the right like we see with SCF.

► It was the fourth hour host of Infowars, Jay Dyer, who first interviewed Dugin on March 12, 2016

► From there, Alex Jones had him on his network at least 5 times and completely whitewashed his background and advocated for a U.S.-Russia alliance during this time. (Bannon did this as well but in a private appeal to Dugin in 2018).

prominence after the coup), the coup was unsuccessful and Den' was renamed to Zavtra (Tomorrow) a couple years later after the 1993 October Coup at the Russian White House.³²⁴ According to Dugin, the day the Soviet flag lowered over the Kremlin, December 25, 1991, was the day he became a Soviet man forever. In his own words:³²⁵

I realized that I had become, totally, irreversibly a Soviet man. Fatally, triumphally Soviet. This after so many tortured years of implacable hatred for my surroundings, for the 'Sovdep', and following my radical, uncompromising national nonconformism. Of course I always hated the West as well. . . But in that August, (despite much conscious effort) all the internal logic of my soul was on the side of the Emergency Committee.

While Dugin was working at Den', Prokhanov helped him get a position as adjunct professor at the Academy of the General Staff of the Russian military which was headed by an acquaintance of Prokhanov's: Colonel-General Igor Rodionov—former General of the 40th Army in Afghanistan (that Prokhanov was at one time attached to) who later was appointed the Russian minister of defense in 1996-1997.³²⁶ Starting in the early 1990s, Dugin taught inside the Department of Strategy at the academy which was headed by Lieutenant General H.P. Kolokotov.³²⁷ Dugin marks this period as the beginning of the Russian school of geopolitics and General Kolokotov remarked that the theory of geopolitics would "serve as a mighty ideological foundation for preparing a new command."³²⁸ Dugin's European associates traveled to Russia to lecture on the subject, including inside the academy to the Russian military (and at least one of these meetings had seven generals in attendance).³²⁹

Dugin cites the first geopolitical texts of the Russian school geopolitics: In his book Mysteries of Eurasia (published under his own publishing house Arktogeya in 1991) was "Continent Russia"

Dugin the Philosopher?

"It is especially important to bring geopolitical turmoil into the US domestic reality by encouraging all kinds of separatism, various ethnic, social and racial conflicts, actively supporting all dissident movements of extremist, racist and sectarian groups that destabilize internal political processes in the USA."

- Foundations of Geopolitics (1997), Aleksandr Dugin, pg. 358

“...the existence of a ‘sovereign Ukraine’ is on a geopolitical level a declaration of geopolitical war on Russia...” –Dugin, pg. 373

“Moscow’s task is to wrest Europe from US (NATO) control... Militarily, it will not pose a serious threat on its own (without the US) for a long time to come.” –Dugin, pg. 359

At the global level the construction of a planetary New Empire will have as its main "scapegoat" the United States, the undermining of whose power (up to the complete destruction of this geopolitical structure) will be carried out systematically and uncompromisingly by all participants in the New Empire. In this respect, the Eurasian project implies Eurasian expansion into South and Central America in order to take it out of the control of the North (here the Spanish factor could be used as a traditional alternative to the Anglo-Saxon one), as well as provoking all kinds of instability and separatism within the US borders (possibly to rely on political forces of African-American racists). The ancient Roman formula "Carthage must be destroyed" will become the absolute slogan of the Eurasian Empire, as it will encapsulate the essence of the entire geopolitical planetary strategy of the continent awakening to its mission.

This approach has several advantages for Russia:

- it gives increased circulation to what would otherwise be fringe voices that suit Russian propaganda goals;
- Russia deflects responsibility by obscuring its sponsorship of the site; and
- the individuals and conspiracy theorists they publish communicate in local idioms and understand their home audiences well.

The Strategic Culture Foundation and the Russian State

SCF was founded in 2005.³ Originally it only published its journal in Russian. In September 2010, the online journal began to also appear in English.⁴ This marked SCF's debut as an instrument for disinformation and propaganda on the international stage.

While SCF's online journal makes every effort to appear independent, it is directed by Russia's Foreign Intelligence Service (SVR) and closely affiliated with the Russian Ministry of Foreign Affairs.⁵ There is no mention of this affiliation on SCF's English-language website, nor of any link to Russia—including the fact that SCF publishes in Russian.⁶ However, International Affairs, the flagship journal of the Russian Ministry of Foreign Affairs since 1922, states on its website that SCF is its partner.⁷

SCF's president is Yuri Prokofiev, who was Moscow Party Chief from 1989 to 1991 and a Soviet Politburo Member.⁸ Prokofiev is also one of the founders of the "Russian Organization for Assistance to Special Services and Law Enforcement Authorities" (ROSSPO).⁹ According to its website, ROSSPO works closely with Russian security services to support the policies of the Russian state, facilitate cooperation between state institutions and civil society, and ensure the social protection of the employees of intelligence services and law enforcement authorities.¹⁰

NewsFront is a Crimea-based disinformation and propaganda outlet that worked with FSB officers to co-opt narrative that undermined the credibility of a news website advocating for human rights. Part of NewsFront was to utilize Alexander Malkevich, who is also being re-designated in today's action, to further disseminate disinformation. NewsFront was also used to distribute false information about the COVID-19 vaccine, which demonstrates the irresponsible and reckless conduct of Russian disinformation sites.

The Strategic Culture Foundation (SCF) is an online journal registered in Russia that is directed by the SVR closely affiliated with the Russian Ministry of Foreign Affairs. SCF is controlled by the SVR's Directorate MS (Measures) and created false and unsubstantiated narratives concerning U.S. officials involved in the 2020 U.S. presidential election. It publishes conspiracy theorists, giving them a broader platform to spread disinformation while trying to obscure the Russian origins of the journal so that readers may be more likely to trust the source.

The GRU operates InfoRos. InfoRos calls itself a news agency but is primarily run by the GRU's 72nd Main Intelligence Information Center (GRITs). GRITs is a unit within Russia's Information Operations Troops, which identified as Russia's military force for conducting subversive operations, influence, and offensive cyber activities.
